3. Documents designated as confidential must not be used or disclosed by the parties or counsel for the parties or any persons identified in paragraph (4) for any purposes whatsoever other than for preparing for and conducting the litigation in which the documents were disclosed (including appeals).

4. The parties and counsel for the parties must not disclose or permit the disclosure of any documents or information designated as confidential under this rule to any other person or entity, except that disclosures may be made in the following circumstances:

 - d. Disclosure may be made to consultants, investigators, or experts (collectively “experts”) employed by the parties or counsel for the parties to assist in the preparation and trial of the lawsuit. The party prevailing on any such motion is entitled to recover as costs its actual attorney fees and costs attributable to the motion. The party who designated the document as confidential will bear the attorney fees and costs.
